Dollhouse Leaves Bingo

The ETH Dollhouse, royal flagship of imperial Ethanland, is leaving the Port of Tranquility. It is carrying Emperor Blue Eyes, who will not disembark at Mother Coast. It also has Hannahlish passengers, who may disembark. The Port of Bingo will remain safe even if the dollhouse has left, and Bingo will too.

The weather will be sunny up until Sunday ☀️

Battle Continues

The battle is devastating the dining room's land and beauty, and may make the dining room a wasteland. If Wu-Wu-Wu Zap is captured and the dining room is at peace again, you can join clubs to help our world. Heaven has been taking on severe damage, because Wu-Wu-Wu Zap is clinging on to it and attacking it.

Meanwhile, the fortress is under heavy firepower, and the inhabitants will probably not be able to escape.

The Exterminator
Assistant of pests that bother your house (or bigger pests, like unicorns toppling towers). You have to pay the exterminator:

For small things (e.g., an infestation of ants): $30

For large pests: $200

Interview with Knight

TJ: "How do you feel about the Unicorn?"

K: "I hope that we can defeat him."

TJ: "Do you like Godzilla?"

K: "Yes! I am quite supportive of Godzilla, because she is fighting against the Uni."

Unicorn Fortress Closes Today

Wu-Wu-Wu Zap, famous criminal villain, has left his old fort and is currently battling in the dining room, on the front lines. Meanwhile, his abandoned fortress has been crushed, crumpled, and heavily attacked. All that remains of it is a pile of rubble, and there may be some Uni traps. But at the top of the guard tower, there is a cannon that costs $20. The original fortress costs $257, but the cannon is just part of it. We will help you clean it out and manage the house by buying the supplies (for example: wood, rock, brick), and also, you won't have to pay any tax! It is in Bingo, on the other very large cliff. It's behind a restricted section, and you have to ask the sentry stationed there if you can go through.
