Battle on the Ping Pong Table

On December 23, 2024, some troops got in the car and drove to Canada to spend Christmas and New Years with Grandpa Hennessy. For Christmas, Grandpa Hennessy gave Ethan an Iwo Jima playset. Soon afterward, a battle erupted in Grandpa Hennessy's basement, with most fighting in the area of the ping pong table. After a couple of attacks, the American troops got into the bunkers, but were driven out soon by Japanese troops. Then, the pirates got involved in the battle, taking the Japanese side and starting to attack from their flagship. They blew up a supply route and made a train go off the cliff on the red book (as seen in the front page photograph).

Why the Japanese Troops Broke Away from Japan

The Japanese troops in the Iwo Jima playset were originally part of Japan, but they chose to work for Wu-Wu-Wu Zap instead. They were gifted as a Christmas present to Ethan by Grandpa Hennessy, and they set up their island base and have been engaged in this battle ever since.

Christmas Play Mutiny

A mutiny was staged on the set of Miracle on 34th Street, turning it secretly into Frosty the Snowman.

Vacation to Grandpa Hennessy's

On the American/Ethanlish home island, six troops (raising a flag in the picture) and a transport vehicle (the car with the Christmas tree on top) are protecting the island in case any enemy sneak attacks befall them.

The evil pirates attack good guy forces by going between the home island of the good guys and Iwo Jima. They are stopping any ships delivering supplies to the troops on Iwo Jima and blowing up the supply lines.
